Joyce Centre for Partnership & Innovation

The new Joyce Centre for Partnership & Innovation, with its 96,000 square feet of learning spaces, is part of the largest renewal of labs and classrooms in the college's 50-year history.

It features state-of-the-art labs and learning spaces where students and faculty work alongside industry partners on applied research projects. The centre is the region's first net-zero energy institutional building, generating as much energy as it consumes, and serves as a living lab for students who will be able to monitor and operate the building.
